United Kingdom	$12.8 billion	0.42%	1.76% (b)	0.22%	0.88%	—

a: those engaged in gig work 'last week' when surveyed b: includes all persons engaged in gig work over a 12-month period
Note: As most gig workers work part-time, their FTE percentage of the workforce is considerably smaller than their recorded (below) nominal percentage of the workforce
* The only Australian figure for gig work as percent of total workforce is an estimate or rather guesstimate of less than 0.5% Minifie, J, Peer-to-peer pressure: Policy for the sharing economy, Grattan Institute, 2016
** McDonald et al. (Table 9) include self-reported data on platform operations in which 28-29 percent of gig workers report they have an employee-style working relationship with the platform. This self-categorization may be inaccurate
